SHAPES

Vicki Gaia & Jim Melquist

March 4 - 28, 2019

Married couple, Vicki Gaia and Jim Melquist collaborate for the March art exhibit at the Stockton Art League's Elsie May Goodwin Gallery.

The theme of their show is SHAPES. For centuries, a variety of shapes have been part of human spiritual and religious symbolism. Natural and man-made forms are used by many cultures to represent diverse meanings. Melquist and Gaia's sculptures are symbolic geometric forms evoking thoughts about our connections with the world around us. While Melquist uses technical processes learned from working as a materials engineer, Gaia calls herself an intuitive layerist, taking a more meditative approach to her work.

Together they created 3-D art pieces from the same materials; plaster, rust and found objects gathered from their cousin's vineyard.

Artist Reception: Saturday, March 9, 4-7pm.

Drawing Class with Raoul Mora

(3 Spots Left Available)

2nd Thursday Instruction with Raul Mora Session:

$15.00/ month. Class meets as usual during Open Lab. Includes Open Lab Sessions Every Thursday from 3-5PM

Open to the public and SAL members, Basic Concepts of drawing are vital to every visual artistic medium. Mora brings his 39 years of experience as artist, teacher, and judge to the Stockton community at the Elsie May Goodwin Gallery. Students will participate by practicing the basic concepts of contour drawing, sketching, and shading with black and white before going on to colored pencil.

Contact Ruth Koon, Thursday Drawing Class Coordinator, at (209) 329-8115

Due to an overwhelming submission of new and renewal memberships, the roster will not be listed in the February Collagraph.

By April 1st, 2019, the current 2019 membership roster will be submitted for viewing on the website and available in the April Collagraph newsletter.

We apologize for any confusion. If you have any questions about memberships please call Jessica at (209) 466-6604 or email at gallery@stocktonartleague.org
